SAYS GERMANY WILL WELCOME U. S. GUARANTEE

Sees, Overcoming of Difficulties Now Surrounding Country.

CHANCE TO RECOVER

Economic Structure of World Upset Under Present Situation.

Berlin, Nov. 7.—Germany welcomes any arrangements between America and France by which the United States guarantees the fullest help to France in the event of an attack against France by Germany, Arthur Von Gwinner, head of the great Deutsche Bank told the International News Service in an exclusive interview today. Herr Von Gwinner is one of the foremost financiers in Central Europe. "Nothing would please us better than if the United States would give iron clad guarantees to France," said Herr Von Gwinner. "Let America tell France she will protect her with funds might against any German attack. Then make France withdraw her troops from Germany for there would be no further need of them then."

"This would not cost America a single penny and would be an enormous step in the pacification and stabilization of Europe. It would take the grip from our throat and give us a breathing spell."

"France is grinding her heel in the face of the vanquished foe. In the meanwhile we are tottering towards ruin, and we will surely drag France along. The whole of European civilization faces extinction. Doesn't France realize that she is destroying herself by destroying us?"

The economic world structure before the war resembled a three legged table, the legs being the United States, England and Germany. The third leg has been knocked out and what is going to happen to the table?

"Half measure will not do. No patchwork can help. You have got to replace that third leg and do it quickly. The continued fall in the value of German mark is the handwriting on the wall. The grip is tightening on Germany's throat. That grip must be relaxed or we choke and our death means the collapse of Europe. We do not ask charity."

MANY KILLED WHEN GALES SWEEP EUROPE

London, Nov. 7.—Many persons were killed and enormous damage caused by heavy gales that have been sweeping northern Europe for thirty hours. Twenty-eight were drowned when the Finnish steamship Kustavi was sunk in the Baltic. Two persons were killed and several were injured at Antwerp. Other deaths were reported from northern France. The British steamer Angus capsized in the harbor at Havre.

There has been a heavy loss in British ports and telephone and telegraph communication is interrupted.

A cold wave is following the storm.

AMENDMENT REJECTED.

Washington, Nov. 7.—At the end of more than four hours acrimonious debate on the soldiers' bonus and the eleven billion dollar foreign indebtedness to the U. S., the amendment to the pending tax bill proposed by Senators Simmons, Democrat, North Carolina and Walsh, Democrat, Mass., to provide compensation for former service men from interest collected on the foreign debt to the United States was rejected in the senate today 29 to 42.

ARBUCKLE TRIAL SCHEDULED FOR MONDAY POSTPONED FOR WEEK AT LAST MINUTE

Combination of Circumstances Enters Into Delay—Film Comedian Leading Quiet Life in San Francisco Hotel for Past Few Weeks.

San Francisco, Nov. 7.—Though scheduled to go on trial today for manslaughter as the result of the death of Virginia Rappe, one of the guests at his gay Labor Day party here, Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle, famous laughsmith of the screen, gained a week's grace.

A combination of circumstances entered into the delay. Two holidays this week—election day and Armistice day—promised to break up the trial had it started as scheduled. In addition there has been doubt whether the defense attorneys would be able to gather the evidence in the east in time. This they succeeded in doing but District Attorney Matthew Brady, gathering counter evidence was not able to complete his investigation by today.

Arbuckle, who with his wife, Minta Durfee Arbuckle, has been living quietly for the past two weeks at a downtown hotel, was on hand for the trial. By agreement, however, when the case was called before Superior Judge Harold Louderback a motion was scheduled to be made seeking the delay and in view of the agreement of both sides, Judge Louderback was expected to set next Monday as the date for the opening of the trial.

The fact that today's appearance was to be purely formal did not prevent a crowd from gathering at the hall of justice early.

Despite the fact that Arbuckle has been living for two weeks within a stone's throw of the scene of the gay hotel party out of which the tragedy resulted but few persons knew that the noted film star was in the city. The two weeks just past probably have been the quietest in the screen comedian's life—at least in recent years. He has been seen but little outside his hotel.

A phonograph has furnished the chief diversion for him and his wife. Most of their meals have been served in their rooms. None of the gay cafes have entertained the "life of the party" on his visit to San Francisco.

Petroleum Problem Has Bearing on Arms Question

Department of State Completes Comprehensive Study Of Matter With Attention to Phases Likely To Lead To Conflict.

Washington, Nov. 7.—Convinced that the petroleum problem has an important bearing upon any plan for the limitation of armament and a better understanding among the nations, the department of state has just completed a comprehensive study of the question with especial attention to those phases which seem likely to lead to conflict of national interests.

Though oil is not specifically mentioned on the agenda of the conference there is little doubt that the subject will come up for discussion, and it was learned on his authority today that the American attitude toward the question has been tentatively formulated and is ready for submission to the other powers at the proper time.

Those injured were Lucy Atkinson, Detroit; Margaret Haggerty, Cleveland; Thelma Fisher, Fort Wayne, Ind.; Vera Rasche, Oakland, Maryland and Pilot L. L. Bowen, of Omaha.

Several thousand persons witnessed the accident.

AMERICAN WOMAN LOSES NECKLACE

Cherbourg, France, Nov. 7.—A pearl necklace, valued at half a million francs, was reported to have been lost by Miss J. C. Stuart, of New York and Paris, when she boarded the Aquitania here Saturday night.

Miss Stuart came from Paris by train and when leaving the tender which conveyed her to the steamer found that the pearls had disappeared. A search revealed no trace of the missing jewelry.

FRANCE READY TO HELP AVERT NEW WORLD CONFLICTS AVERS BRIAND ON ARRIVAL IN U. S.

Premier and French Delegation Arrive in New York, Monday, Expressing Optimism On Outcome of Disarmament Conference at Washington.

New York, Nov. 7.—France is to join any movement to avert new world conflicts and will approach the forthcoming conference at Washington in the most favorable spirit for the maintenance of peace, according to Aristide Briand, premier of France and chief of the French armament limitation delegation arriving here today.

"Between France and the United States there is no room for any difference—however slight," Briand said in a statement to the American people. "Both our countries endeavor only to lead the men and peoples of good will to peaceful and fruitful work and to reduce more and more the risks of war."

"Today the world world, which is in such need of safety and rest wants not only soothing words, but realities," said the French Premier.

"I earnestly trust the Washington meeting will give us an opportunity in this respect. France and America, yesterday united on the battlefields, will thus continue to play their beneficial part in deriving from their common victory such results as will conform with the idealism that has ever animated them."

Aside from the official welcoming party which went down the bay in the army tug Lexington to greet Briand, only a small knot of persons was at the pier to meet him. This was his expressed wish that there be no ceremonies of welcome when he arrived here.

Accompany Briand was Rene Viviani, also a member of the French delegation to Washington and a former premier of France. Colonel Philippe Bunau-Varilla, war hero was a conspicuous member of the French premier's party, his artificial leg being an ever present reminder of France's war sacrifices.

Briand brought with him French documents for use at Washington, together with records of the Versailles peace conference. He was in excellent spirits as he left the French Lafayette and waved a cherry greeting to friends in the waiting group on the pier.

he premier proceeded immediately to the Pennsylvania railroad station where he took a train for Washington.

Fellow passengers of the French premier said Briand and Viviani made no secret of the fact that the delegation would probably prove to be the radicals at the armament limitation conference, because France believes her wounds are still bleeding while other countries that took part in the war are rapidly recovering.

These passengers also said Briand hoped the Washington conference would be short. From conversations with the members of the French delegation they believed France's program would be to yield on a number of points if she can accomplish reduction of military and naval expenditures and still safeguard the fruits of victory.

MUNICIPAL ISSUES AND AMENDMENTS DECIDED TUESDAY

Warm Campaign In Dayton For City Commission Expected.

Columbus, Nov. 7.—Municipal issues and proposals to amend the state constitution so as to provide for the soldier bonus, a poll tax, and redistricting the state into state senatorial districts will be decided by Ohio voters at the polls, tomorrow.

A heated campaign at Cleveland involves seven candidates for mayor, 178 candidates for city council, including 15 women, three candidates for chief justice of the municipal court and 12 for the three lower judgeships, including two women candidates.

At Dayton, three socialists are opposing three independents as candidates for membership on the city commission. Three commissioners are to be elected.

At Toledo, the question of retaining daylight saving time will be decided. Candidates for mayor of Toledo are Solo T. Klotz, socialist; Judge B. F. Brough, Republican, and Clarence A. Bendig, Democrat.

The Republican and Democratic candidates at Cincinnati are opposed by independent and farmer labor candidates. It is claimed this is the first time the farmer labor party has appeared on a local ballot in Ohio.

Mayoralty candidates at Newark and London are under indictment while a candidate for mayor at Dover is named in charges on file with Gov. Davis.

Mrs. Bernice Pyke, member of the Democratic national committee is one of the five mayoralty candidates at Lakewood.

For the purpose of voting, Gov. Davis and numerous other state officials and employees have gone to their home cities.

In a number of cities, proposed bond issues will be decided.

The rifle weighs 78 tons, shoots 28 miles, using shells weighing 2,340 pounds. The gun is 35 feet long, and the total weight of gun-carriage and all is 252,348 pounds. This is the first gun of its kind in this country and is being built for coast defense.

Shoe Worker Confesses To Portsmouth Murder

Roy Chamblin, 27, Arrested in Cincinnati Says He Fired Three Shots at Newman and Then Killed Girl to Cover Up Crime—Curiosity Led to Tragedy

Portsmouth, O., Nov. 7.—That robbery was the motive for the double murder of Miss Louise Doyle, pretty church organist and John W. Newman Sunday school worker, was conclusively shown this morning when Roy Chamblin, arrested in Cincinnati Saturday, admitted to authorities that he rifled the pockets of Newman and secured $18 and a gold watch. He later threw the watch in the Ohio river, together with the revolver with which he committed the crime he confessed.

Thus is cleared up a mystery which has engaged the days and nights of Scioto county officials and Portsmouth detectives since the finding of the bodies of the couple on October 28.

It was neither jealousy nor robbery that prompted the crime, Chamblin declared. According to his story he saw the automobile standing in front of the abandoned house, which stands on a road known as "lovers retreat" along which there is little travel. Entering the house he found Miss Doyle, according to his story, in the arms of Newman. Newman, Chamblin said, hurled a brick at the intruder.

Chamblin, his gun in his hand, fired three shots at the man, who did not fall, according to the confession, until the third shot was fired. Then, in order to secure his own safety, he fired another shot into the breast of the girl.

He then left the house, jumped into Newman's automobile and drove away. The gasoline supply became exhausted when he reached the Tremper house on the west side of the Scioto river.

He was in Manchester over night, he said, then went to Cincinnati and spent the remainder of his time until his arrest in that city and in California, a suburb.

Chamblin is a one-legged man. The clue leading to his arrest was the finding of a pair of pliers identified as his near the scene of the murder.

MAYORALTY FIGHT IN NEW YORK CITY NOW WAXING HOT

Mayor Hylan Claims Re-election by Large Plurality Monday.

New York, Nov. 7.—The fight for the New York City mayoralty waxed hot today as both Democratic and Coalition leaders marshalled their forces and laid down their final bargains for the election, tomorrow. Both sides claimed victory, Mayor John F. Hylan, Democratic candidate, was said by his campaign managers to be certain of re-election with a 300,000 plurality. Coalition leaders declared their nominee, Henry H. Curran, would win the election with at least 150,000 votes to spare. Wall street's betting odds favored Hylan to win.

National interest has been manifested in the campaign owing to the issues involved. Chief among these is the traction problem. Mayor Hylan was elected to his present term on a five cent fare platform which swept him into office with an overwhelming plurality. His present campaign has been based on the same issue. Curran has waged a fight along lines alleging Hylan to be a tool in the hands of others. Hylan countered with the charge that Curran was the candidate of the traction interests.

The socialist candidates, Jacob Panken, has also waged a stiff campaign and his supporters looked for a heavy socialist vote.

MRS. LYDIA SOUTHARD GIVEN LONG TERM

Twin Falls, Idaho, Nov. 7.—Mrs. Lydia Southard today was sentenced to serve ten years to life in the Idaho state penitentiary for the murder of Edward F. Meyer her fourth husband, after a trial lasting several weeks. The court imposed the minimum penalty under the Idaho laws. Attorneys for Mrs. Southard are expected to appeal the case.

DELEGATES TO ARMS MEETING ARE GATHERING

Cast Now Completed at Capital With Two Exceptions.

DUTCH ARRIVE

Far-Eastern Matters Are Likely To Overshadow Other Issues.

Washington, Nov. 7.—The cast for the armament conference was completed today with the exception of the European "stars"—Premier Briand, head of the French delegation, and Lloyd George's understudy, A. J. Balfour, who is leading the British delegates to Washington.

The French will arrive today and the British Thursday, according to the outlook.

The Dutch delegates are the latest arrivals. Like those who preceded them to Washington, the Netherlands representatives arrived breathing a spirit of optimism and a willingness to co-operate with other powers to the end that friction in the far east may be allayed for all time.

The Dutch party numbered 23 persons, delegates and staff. Their interest is confined almost wholly to the far eastern questions to be settled by the conference. Particularly are they interested in what may be done to the world oil situation, in which they occupy a position wholly out of proportion to their international importance.

Developments in the orient within the past few days, have made it very certain that far eastern matters will overshadow all others when the delegates meet around the table in continental Hall next Saturday.

Both Japan and China have political difficulties at home to distract their attention from the main business at hand. The assassination of the Japanese premier has thrown Tokyo into a temporary political confusion and it was predicted by Japanese here today that it would be some days before order can be restored and a new premier installed.

Pekin is in even more political chaos, owing to the financial instability of the present government, reflected a few days ago in the government's admission that it could not meet a note for $5,500,000 held by the Continental and Commercial National Bank at Chicago.

ANOTHER MURDER CASE CONFRONTS DAYTON POLICE

Dayton, Nov. 7.—Dayton police are confronting another murder case with the shooting of Charles Lowe, 42, in a North Dayton pool room Sunday night and the subsequent arrest of "Cowboy" Frank Sahara, of First street and Lombard avenue.

Lowe is in Miami hospital with bullet wounds in his neck and abdomen and hospital authorities say that he is in a grave condition with death expected before night. An operation was performed early Monday morning in an effort to save his life.

Lowe is said to have been shot at the corner of Keowee and Herbert streets during a fight in which Lowe, Sahara and a third unidentified man are said to have taken part. Sahara was arrested an hour after word near his home, and taken to the hospital where Lowe identified him as the man who shot him. Sahara claims the third man in the argument was the one who did the shooting.

NEW CRISIS IN IRISH PEACE SITUATION NOW WORKING SWIFTLY TOWARD CLIMAX

Trouble Precipitated by Refusal of Ulster Unionists To Accept Proposed Compromise Measure—Peace Conference to Meet Wednesday.

London, Nov. 7.—The new crisis in the Irish peace situation, precipitated by the refusal of the Ulster unionists to accept the proposed compromise measures, appeared today to be working swiftly towards a climax. A member of the entourage of Sir James Craig, premier of the unionist government of Ulster, told International News Service that Ulster would not make the concessions demanded by the Sinn Fein.

"Sir James is not prepared to agree to an all-Irish parliament at Dublin which would have absolute control over Ulster," said this informant, fore Wednesday.

"Further more he is unwilling to enter into bargaining over the counties of Fermanagh and Tyrone."

The Sinn Fein claimed these counties on the ground that the preponderance of voters were Sinn Fein sympathizers.

Michael Collins, commander in chief of the republican army and member of the Sinn Fein peace delegation, was scheduled to arrive from Dublin this afternoon, although it was stated at Sinn Fein headquarters that no further sessions of the peace conference were expected before Wednesday.

HENRY CLEWS Weekly Financial Review

With the railroad strike definitely disposed of, financial conditions have naturally shown a tendency toward betterment during the past week. The economic side of the approaching arms conference assumes more and more significance, not only because of its bearing on taxation but also in its foreign exchange aspects. Congress is being strongly urged to pass the International Debt Funding bill and there is a fair chance that the measure may be adopted prior to the opening of the Conference. This should give our representatives a very large bargaining power.

THE SALES TAX GAINING FRIENDS

There has been a decided growth in the strength of the sales tax plan in Congress, and while it has been technically beaten on the floor the development of a strong support in that body greatly increases the chance of substituting some form of it before the work of the Conference Committee of the two Houses is over. As a result of the addition of a high surtax rate and still other amendments tending to make the administration of the income tax even more oppressive, dissatisfaction has become much more pronounced in many parts of the country. Accordingly members of Congress are now searching for some alternative which even at this late date might serve as an acceptable substitute for the complex and involved plan that has been worked out during the income tax discussion. The point at which most serious uncertainty prevails today is in connection with the attitude of the Administration, but the bill as now before Congress has departed so widely from what had been planned by the Administration that the hope of securing the adoption of anything like the original measure has long since been given up.

RAILROAD DEVELOPMENTS

The railroad stocks have of course shown the good results of the relief from strike threats. Owners are, however, very desirous to find out what is to be done regarding the question of rates and wages. Informal pledges, given by members of the Railroad Labor Board, seem likely to stand in the way of a satisfactory adjustment of the differing points of view as to labor expense. It appears likely that a sort of promise to defer further consideration of wage cuts until several months from date has been extended. If this is actually the state of affairs notwithstanding that rate cuts are expected to become operative in the near future, the effect upon the net earnings of the roads may be unsatisfactory. It is too soon to predict exactly what the outcome of existing conditions will be. Meantime, the demand for the adoption of the railroad funding bill continues to be active.

BUSINESS ON THE UPGRADE

The monthly business report of the Federal Reserve Board, made public this week, points to a general growth in the volume of operations in nearly all lines of activity, although basic manufactures are not in as forward a condition as businesses producing finished goods. Particularly hopeful is the fact that prices are apparently reaching a much more stable or normal condition than any that has prevailed for a long time. There is an increasing degree of activity in retail trade in almost all parts of the country which grows out of the larger purchasing power placed in the hands of farmers through the sale of their crops at good prices. During the past week, copper shares have reflected the much better outlook in the copper metal market. This is partly the outgrowth of export demand and in part the reflection of improved business conditions at home, especially of the increase of building activity. The oil outlook is also far better. There is a diminution of unemployment in a good many manufacturing districts which promises to make the winter now opening much less serious for the wage earner than had been expected some time ago. Unemployed men number not over 50 per cent of the estimated total of three months ago. All these more hopeful factors in the trade situation have had their share in helping the quotations on industrial stocks, notwithstanding that the outside demand originating with investors is still comparatively limited.

EXCHANGE AND MONEY PROSPECTS

Continued growth in our holdings of gold and reduction in the portfolios of reserve banks reflects the steady liquidation of credit in many parts of the country and furnishes the basis for the predictions of the Treasury Department with regard to lower discount rates. Reduction of the Federal Reserve rate to 4 1/2 per cent in New York and Philadelphia, Boston and at nearly all other reserve banks in amounts of from 1-2 to 1 per cent leaves no doubt that the rediscount accommodations may be expected to be both abundant and cheap for some time ahead. Postponement of the time for Germany's next reparations payment has been necessary as a result of the disturbed conditions existing in Berlin, but indicates no change in the situation there. Reduction of the local quotation of the mark to little more than 1-2 shows that no plan for the relief of the situation is yet in sight.

MARKET REVIEW AND OUTLOOK

Prices have been on the whole fairly strong during the past week, but profit taking has been from time to time a considerable feature although the market has shown good recuperative power on comparatively small buying. Borrowing demand for a number of the active stocks continues brisk—a clear indication of the fact that the bear account continues extended. It seems likely that the market will be subject to cross currents for the immediate future, but with the expectation that adequate supplies of money will be obtainable on easy terms no serious setback is in sight as it has been shown on numerous occasions that liquidation ran its course several months ago. Indeed if business continues to expand, as now expected, it is reasonable to suppose that prices will gradually work to a higher level based on merit.

Leroy Thomas

Leroy Thomas, son of Frank and Eva Thomas, of near Jamestown, Ohio, was born May 21, 1917, and departed this life, October 21, 1921, aged 4 years, 5 months. Leroy was a child of a lovable disposition always ready to obey his parents while yet just a child he was always interested in the welfare of his brother and sisters. Although frail in health he had a desire to get well, but our loss is his gain. God saw fit to take him home on high where pain is no more. Suffer the little children to come unto me for of such is the Kingdom of Heaven. He leaves to mourn his loss, father, mother, one brother, Herman and two sisters, Eula and Reva Thomas, two grandmothers, one grandfather and a number of relatives and friends to mourn his sudden departure.

We have lost our darling baby
He has bid us all adieu;
He has gone to live in heaven,
And his form is lost to view.

Oh! that dear one how we loved him
Oh, how hard to give him up.
But an angel came down for him
And removed him from our flock.

The vacant place, the empty chair,
We see them day by day.
And Oh! it fills our hearts with sorrow.

Since our darling went away.

CARD OF THANKS

We desire to thank our friends and neighbors who were so kind during the sickness and death of our little son. We also wish to thank Rev. Smith for his consoling words and the two young ladies for their soothing music.
Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thomas and family.

FORMER OFFICERS TO FORM COLONY

Ottawa, Ont.—Former British army officers and their families will comprise a colony to be established on 30,000 acres of land in the Lilloet district of British Columbia, under a plan now before the Royal Colonial Institute of London.

At a recent conference in London, presided over by the agent-general for British Columbia, Col. H. F. Meurling outlined the plan. The land, he stated, would be colonized and developed under the direction of a company. Half the capital stock would be taken up on a regular investment basis by stockholders. The remaining half would be issued to the British settlers.

These settler-shareholders would be employed by the company and paid monthly wages. They would be housed and otherwise provided with adequate living facilities. The proposal, London Dispatch says, was warmly approved by the institute. Details are to be worked out by a committee comprising several members of Parliament. Sir Rider Haggard will be asked to act as chairman.

The movement is in line with various other steps taken by the dominion and provincial governments to aid settlers in getting a firm start on the rich lands of the West. New settlers of two or three years ago are prosperous farmers of today as a result of aid extended on choice of lands and development of mixed farming, stock raising and fruit growing.

Officials believe the plan to bring over the former British officers and their families will work out successfully.

Her husband preceded her in death but she is survived by three sons, John, James and David, who have been with their mother in Albuquerque, and will accompany the body to Butler, Pa., her former home.

ABLE TO DO HER WORK

After Long Suffering Mrs. Siefert Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Pottsville, Pa.—"I suffered with female trouble for four or five years and was very irregular. I was not fit to do my work at times and took medicine from a doctor and got no benefit. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the newspapers and took it and got it right. I gained twenty pounds or more and am now able to do my work. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to my friends and you may use these facts as a testimonial."—Mrs. SALLIE SIEFERT, 313 W. Fourth Street, Pottsville, Pa.

The everyday life of many housewives is a continual struggle with weakness and pain. There is nothing more wearing than the ceaseless round of household duties and they become doubly hard when some female trouble makes every bone and muscle ache, and nerves all on edge. If you are one of these women do not suffer for four or five years as Mrs. Siefert did, but profit by her experience and be restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

SPECIAL MASSES FOR ARMS MEETING

Special Masses will be held at St. Brigid's Catholic Church, Friday, when the congregation will be asked to offer up its prayers for the success of the Disarmament Conference which begins that day in Washington.

Archbishop Henry Moeller, of the Cincinnati Diocese, in a circular letter read by pastors of all churches in the diocese, Sunday, asked that the day be set aside as a time for special prayer.

The Archbishop's letter was a concise and clear-viewed presentation of the importance of the conference and its bearing on the future of the nations, and he said that the important work being carried out by the nations' representatives would need the prayers of the laity for their success. The Archbishop's wishes will be carried out here by the Rev. A. A. Burke, pastor of St. Brigid's.

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

Darkens Beautifully and Restores Its Natural Color and Lustre at Once.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients a large bottle, at little cost, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of fuss.

While gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

LEGION TEAM WINS FROM SPRINGFIELD

Playing with old-time form and pep, the American Legion football team, which has lost but one game this season, came through with another win, Sunday, by defeating the Springfield Pirates, 41-0.

Although the visitors from Clark county put up a plucky brand of the grid game, they were no match for the weight and speed of the locals, who cavorted over the line stripes at will, and scored with startling frequency.

Agents of the Legion eleven are now attempting to make arrangements for a real game, next Sunday. The Pirates, anxious to see the locals step out in their class, are encouraging the Legion team to come to Springfield, next Sunday, for a game with the Vogue Athletics of that place.

While this game may be booked, an emissary of the business department of the Legion Club went to Sidney, Sunday, to attempt to book the Sidney Legion team. If the Sidney eleven could be brought here fans could be assured of one the most interesting exhibitions of the season, as the upstate aggregation has been going at a great clip.

CAMPAGNING FOR ELECTION, TUESDAY. EXTREMELY LIGHT IN THIS COUNTY; AMENDMENTS FAIL TO DRAW INTEREST

Campaigning for Tuesday's election in this county has been particularly noticeable by its absence. Even the proposed amendments to the constitution of the state have failed to attract any great amount of interest. Perhaps that is because amendments to constitutions, both state and national, have become so frequent recently that they have lost their old-time ability to create a furore among the electorate. Perhaps it is because little introduction or explanation of the amendments, with the exception perhaps of that providing for a soldiers' bonus, has been made.

The soldiers' bonus, or adjusted compensation amendment provides for an outlay of money to reward soldiers, sailors, marines and nurses of the late war who claim Ohio as their home, for their services.

Second of the three amendments is that providing for a poll-tax, and its very name is expected to win for it, rebuke from an already tax-burdened public. The poll-tax amendment, if passed, will give the general assembly of the state the power to levy at any time it wants to, a tax on each individual, in any amount it wants to, and it is the belief of politicians that Greene County, at least, will not let the amendment pass.

The third and last proposed amendment is expected to fail in this county also, in a great measure because of the fact that few of the voters know what it is or understand what it means. The amendment would reduce the number of state senatorial districts without materially reducing the number of state senators. Without reducing the number of senators it is hard to make the populace believe that the expense of the change could possibly lead to an economical condition that would warrant its vote, even if there were no other sides to the question. And Greene County, accustomed to playing safe and voting no when it is in doubt, is expected to do that very thing on this amendment.

Over and before these state issues that will be presented to men and women who enter the polls, Tuesday, and the women must not forget that they are still entitled to vote, there are 263 candidates for office in the county, who must be given some attention. The majority of these candidates are running for minor offices, such as township and village positions, and a great majority of them have no opposition for the position they seek. Those who have will see that you know they are on the ticket.

In Xenia city there are at least two issues that will attract some little attention. One of these is the city commission conflict and the other is the board of education battle. There are three city commissioners to elect, Tuesday, who will take office January 1, 1922, and who will succeed the three retiring commissioners, J. T. Charters, C. S. Frazer and Arthur Whalen, who have served since the inception of the commission-manager form of government here.

To fill these three offices six candidates are in the field. They are H. L. Smith, M. J. Hartley, George E. Hudson, C. S. McDaniel, A. E. Kildow and Dr. H. R. Hawkins. The first three named are running for office under the banner of the Citizens' Committee, which committee organized, assembled, nominated and persuaded these three men to run. None of them has ever been on the city commission.

Besides the three candidates who were named by the citizens' committee, three others sprang into being during the time for filing. C. S. McDaniel, Azel E. Kildow and Dr. H. R. Hawkins are the three independent candidates, who are seeking the votes of the people for election on the commission. None of them have ever served on the commission or been connected with the administration since the present form of government was adopted.

For board of education, there is a four-cornered affair. The candidates whose names will be found on the ballots are Jacob Kany, A. G. Spahr and E. C. Schweibolt, but Wade H. McIntosh is asking the public to write his name in as the fourth candidate. Jacob Kany and A. G. Spahr are present members of the board and are seeking reelection. E. C. Schweibolt is seeking to serve his first term on the board as is also Wade H. McIntosh.

The county board of education will have three vacancies that are being sought in the election, Tuesday by A. L. Fisher, W. E. Bryson and J. E. Hastings. W. Schneider, village marshal of Osborn and constable of Bath township, will have opposition for constable in Charles W. Turner, Maurice Lesher and Morris W. Lazure. For the marshal's position he will be opposed by Charles W. Turner. Ten candidates for Osborn village council promises an interesting fight for seats in that body.

Seven candidates have filed for trustee, in Beaver Creek, which makes the campaign for those of-

WHOLESALE PRICES ARE 1914 LEVEL

Chicago, Nov. 7.—Wholesale prices of beef have dropped to the 1914 level.

The institute of American meat packers, in a bulletin made public today stated that carcass beef at the end of October, 1921 was selling for 11 1-2 to 12c a pound. In October 1914 the average wholesale price was 12 per cent.

Retail beef prices, however, are not reflecting the decline in wholesale prices. Retail dealers do not see any price drop in the immediate future.

TRIANGLES LOSE TO CANTON TEAM

F. J. Slackford, former secretary of the Chamber of Commerce here, and now star performer on the Canton Bull Dog football team, contributed one of the touchdowns that defeated the Dayton Triangles at Canton Sunday afternoon, 14-0.

The Bull Dogs used straight football almost entirely with Slackford, Morrow, Falcoln and Griggs hammering the left side of the Triangles' line for long gains. The Bull Dogs carried the ball more than 60 yards on straight football for the first touch down in the second period, Falcoln scoring. In the third period after an advance of 40 yards by line plays, Slackford knocked nine yards off tackle for the second touchdown.

In independent football circles Sunday, the Staleys defeated Detroit at Chicago 20-9, the Akron Indians defeated the Columbus Panhandles, 21-0 and Jim Thorpe's Cleveland Indians were defeated by Buffalo 10-6.

FUNERAL IS HELD

Funeral services were held at the M. P. Church in Port William, Sunday afternoon at two o'clock, for Ethan L. Whitacre, 31, who died at his home near Port William, Friday, after several weeks illness.

The services were in charge of the Rev. A. R. Read, pastor of the church. Mr. Whitacre was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Whitacre, of Spring Valley, and besides his parents, is survived by his wife, Anna Whitacre.

HIGH SCHOOL TEAM PLAYS WILMINGTON FRIDAY AFTERNOON

It will be a blue and white football team hot on the trail of a season's record without a single defeat, that will invade the precincts of Quakerdom Friday, when Coach Jerry L. Katherman escorts his moleskin artists to Wilmington for the second game of the season with Wilmington High.

A defeat handed the Quakers here several weeks ago, counts for naught in the advance dope on the coming conflict, as past performances have shown that no matter how formidable a score has been piled up on the Quakers on a foreign field, they always make a lively adversary in their own backfield.

The popularity that attends a winning combination is the cause for the migration to the Clinton county capital which will take place Armistice Day. Indications at present are that several hundred bugs, who have followed closely the activities of the blue and white combination, will be on hand to cheer their favorites to victory when they take the field against Coach Black's orange and black gridgers. The game will be staged early in the afternoon as a forerunner to the Wilmington College-Defiance game which will come in as the wind-up of the double-header.

Should the locals defeat Wilmington, and they will bend all efforts to do so, they have but one contender in their path to a victorious season. Springfield will be met on the local oblong on the week-end following, in what will be the swan-song of the Katherman crowd unless another game is booked.

Jerry, by the way, has been making efforts to bring a good team here for a Thanksgiving Day game, and recently turned down Circleville because he did not think that team would attract the interest of the fans. The Washington C. H. Herald, suggests a Turkey Day battle between Chillicothe and Xenia, and the proposal listens well. Chillicothe has defeated Greenfield 40-0, and has come through its season with but one defeat, administered in the opener by a Columbus High eleven.

TO GIVE BENEFIT PERFORMANCE ON NOVEMBER 17TH

HENRY FORD, DREAMER, WORKER, AND "FRIEND OF MAN."

The occasion for an article about Henry Ford, to be based principally upon interviews obtained expressly for such an article for the Review of Review by Mr. Judson C. Welliver, was the recent report that a definite offer had been made to the Government by Mr. Ford for the unfinished but immense water-power development at Muscle Shoals, in Alabama. It was deemed probable that this project, intended by the Government to produce nitrates for war purposes, would be acquired by Mr. Ford for the making of agricultural fertilizers on an unprecedented scale. In other ways Mr. Ford has had prominence of late, notably in his leadership in the movement from stagnation to industrial activity. Mr. Welliver has sought to present Mr. Ford as he found him, and to represent his opinions as Mr. Ford actually expresses them.

He says: "Day after day for a week he talked to me with amazing frankness and freedom, of what he has done, and how; of what he hopes to do hereafter, and to help other men to do. A genius in mechanics, a revolutionist in industry, a Napoleon in business, he has visions of the future that are not distorted by any reflections from the background of a past about which he knows little and cares less. His eye and interest are all for the tomorrows.

"His vision seems a strange composite of big ideas and fantastic notions. But as one gets closed to his innermost thoughts, one hardly dares be certain about the fantasies. If one didn't know the man's record of making dreams come true, of turning fantasy to fact, he would sound like any other radical.

Asked whether he had in mind to devote Muscle Shoals entirely to nitrate production, Mr. Ford said he supposed that it would be necessary to sell to whoever would buy; to use the power for nitrates, for railway electrification, for industries. But he had no particular plans; was simply prepared to develop the power if he were given the chance, and make the best feasible use of it when he had it.

Despite reticence as to details, one gathers that he has a pretty definite notion of what he wants with that power. In his industrial scheme, every new development has a definite relationship to the one that has gone before and the one that is to come after. He considers that the cheap motor car has done more for agricultural reform than anything else. "It has given the farmer a chance to get acquainted with the world, to see what is going on around him, to become a social being," said Mr. Ford. It has brought better roads, and made the cities willing, even anxious, to pay their share for them. It has ended the farmer's isolation, which more than all else kept him from understanding his relations to the community, and the community's to him.

Incidentally Mr. Ford's grandfather was born near London, his father born in Ireland, and Mr. Ford himself within a mile or two of his factory at Dearborn, a suburb of Detroit. The 8000-acre tract he owns here includes his father's old home farm. He has preserved and restored the house and outbuildings and is re-furnishing the house with his mother's old furniture, etc., or with duplicates when only these can be had. One day he pulled a handful of broken crockery from his pockets and exhibited it with much glee. He had dug around the yard of the old home to find it so that he could get a similar set of dishes for the old house. In the machine shop and laboratory over the garage at his home place, he showed me, with equal pleasure, his mother's spinning-wheel, being restored for the old home, and the first Ford car.

Two brothers of the manufacturer, farmers, live near him at Dearborn, and he has a sister. Mr. Ford's education represents the public schools of Dearborn as a village, and a course in a Detroit business college.

It is only fair to protest against the caricatures and lampoons that represent Mr. Ford as an ignorant man. True, his mind is in the future, not the past. But he reads much, especially the Bible and Emerson, quoting both often.

Once more I came back to the question, "how, in its beginning, before you had capital, did you manage to finance a great business out of its earnings and keep it in your own control?" This time I got an answer, and it was all I ever did get:

"Pay cash, and insist on being paid cash. I always did. We sell our cars to our agents for cash; the agent can sell on time if he pleases, but he is a fool if he sells for anything but cash."

People with enthusiasms and causes are always coming to Mr. Ford for encouragement—and financial help. After listening to an earnest young man on one of these missions Mr. Ford said, "You've got a good idea. I had one once. It took me twelve years to get my good idea out of a woodshed and into a shop twice as big. But I didn't go to rich men with it. You go and work out your idea, even if it does take fifteen years."

It was not easy to get Mr. Ford to talk about his methods of dealing with labor. He has never had a strike, though once or twice agitators have circulated papers in the effort to initiate one. The minimum wage in his employment is $6 a day with a bonus added. At first the bonus was paid at the end of the year; but the plan had bad features. Men who didn't work the entire year were liable to lose their shares. Some others couldn't stand the prosperity of getting so much money at once. There were cases of men running away from home when they got the bonus. So the bonus is now simply added to the bi-weekly wage of each man.

The Xenia City Council will meet in regular session, tomorrow night, and at that time the prohibition ordinance will come up for its final reading and passage. It is predicted that the ordinance will be passed.

A new telegraph office is to be installed by the Pan Handle in the east end of the yards, just above the Wilmington crossing. The office formerly at that point was abolished several years ago.

Xenia is not to have her new engine houses after all, the city solicitor having rendered the opinion that it requires two-thirds of all the votes cast in order to carry the proposition. There was only a majority of 147 votes to the proposition.

Health Talks[®]

By John B. Huber, AMMD

THE FOUNDLING

One night last May a girl infant was left on the doorstep of a Christian clergyman. Just a little child crying in the night, and with no language but a cry. There was nothing left with the infant to indicate its parentage. The clergyman had it nurtured and in all things tenderly cared for in his home. He baptized it Faith Willard and considered adopting it, being himself a bachelor of 63.

He is a large man, large in body, large in mind, large in soul. He has a great mind as I found the Sunday I heard him preach on the theme: "God does not fix the death rate." And he reminds me of the Spanish Patron Saint of Little Children, a burly man holding most gently in his huge arms a little boy, as painted by Murillo.

I fear he is not over-strong as to orthodoxy, though being a layman I cannot venture an opinion as to that. Also I fear he is pretty radical in his preaching. But then, you see he began his ministry in Fall River where his congregation were mostly very poor, working people. Anyway, I for my part would go a good many miles to hear him preach on the text: "Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not, for of such is the Kingdom of Heaven." And I believe he is one of the most consistent followers of Christ alive today in respect of humanness and loving kindness.

Well, little Faith Willard has entered the Kingdom of Heaven. A fortnight ago she was taken to a hospital. She had been a sickly child. In the hospital he visited her constantly, because he had come to love her dearly, bringing always flowers and toys. But at last little Faith died—of broncho-pneumonia, which may have had its origin in the exposure she suffered when she had been laid at his doorsteps. Tomorrow I will comment on this episode from a Doctor's viewpoint.

TEE, FAIRWAY, AND GREEN BY CHICK EVANS

The average golfer is inclined to think that winds sweeping across the course have more effect on the flight of his golf ball than they really do.

Winds have a greater effect on the player than they have on the ball, and the average golfer will do well to give some attention to the direction or strength of wind currents when he stands at the tee.

One of the chief factors in a long, straight drive from the tee is concentration. Good drivers send out long balls because they have learned the lesson of centering solely upon the matter of hitting the ball square on the nose. The player who has learned to do this can repeat time and again. Such a player will not let himself be concerned much over the wind which "bloweth where it listeth" over the field.

I have seen players take a handkerchief at the tee and hold it out to the breeze, evidently to get a true "line" on the wind. I have seen them doing this when the wind currents were hardly strong enough to sway the dandelions. It takes a young gale to interfere with the ball's flight, and the fact is that even a high wind has been demonstrated to have little effect for or against a good drive. Here is a good example of this statement.

Cecil Leitch, the British woman champion, in one of her games recently at the Belevedere tournament, sent out a drive of over 300 yards against a wind that was almost a gale! A drive of such length—splendid distance for a powerful man player—is in all probability all that Miss Leitch would hope for had the wind been favoring. Indeed the newspaper accounts of the shot mention her surprise at the distance.

Another thing is that so many players think a strong wind flying with the ball will lengthen the drive. Consequently many players play deliberately to get the ball high from the tee. It is the mathematician Tait, I believe, who demonstrated that a golf ball is never blown onward by a favoring wind, as is popularly believed, for the reason, obvious enough when it is pointed out, that a driven golf ball travels faster than any wind that ever blow. Tait also explains that the wind flying with the ball can increase the distance of the ball's flight only because air resistance to the ball is lessened and the decreased resistance permits the ball to travel a short distance farther.

Harry Vardon thinks that the drive which must be played into a terrific wind and be intentionally pulled or sliced in order to obtain the customary distance is one of the finest shots in the game. But in this Vardon is talking about the winds that sweep the British courses almost daily. These are winds that we do not contend with here except on rare occasions. And you would have to see Vardon wrap one of his thrilling intentional pulls around a dog leg corner to really grasp what he means. In the drive Vardon, the master, makes his ball answer him with everything except a singing voice.

Don't give too much thought to minor winds. You will soon observe that they have little effect and that they are mainly a mental hazard. I shall have more on this subject.

EDWIN W. FIELD, Milwaukee, Wis.

"I'm convinced if I had taken Tanlac two years ago, when my troubles first began, I would have been saved a world of suffering," said Ed W. Field, 528 Jefferson St., Milwaukee, Wis.

"My case proved that when a man's stomach goes wrong, everything goes wrong with him. The first thing I noticed out of the way was loss of appetite and next, that no matter how sparingly I ate, I was sure to have an attack of indigestion. This was two years ago and from that time on, until after I started on Tanlac, I kept going down hill at a steady rate. I finally got so I couldn't walk a couple of blocks without having to stop and rest and I was so nervous that often I sat up in a chair all night long.

"Tanlac has made a new man out of me, my stomach is as sound as a dollar and I feel fine all the time. I am a firm believer in Tanlac because I know it delivers the goods."

"Tanlac is sold in Xenia by Sayre & Hemphill and all leading druggists everywhere.

THE HORSE.

Sometimes, when viewing motor cars, and marking how they slay my friends, I sadly say, "I thank my stars if this wild drama ever ends! 'Twould be a blessed thing, indeed, if men these motors would eschew, and go back to the faithful steed that hauled our fathers fro and to." And then dead horses I recall, the grand old steeds I used to drive; and, counting up their failings all, I'm rather glad they don't survive. Old Dobbin sleeps where clinging vines their soft and slumbrous shade produce; he'd get his tail across the lines, and then he'd kick the dashboard loose. For good old dappled Prince I sigh, his pedigree was long and rich; at every little thing he'd shy, and dump the buggy in the ditch. And Barb, the Arab, lies beneath a granite boulder, gray and big; she'd get the bit firm in her teeth, and run away, and smash the rig. And faithful Nemo used to walk along the highway, white and straight; and he would hump himself and balk if I'd suggest a smarter gait. And when I think of all the nags I used to drive in other days, the spavined plugs, the equine hags, the blacks, the chestnuts and the bays; I think perhaps I am at fault to wish them back upon the scene, and to my flivver's seat I vault, and burn three quarts of gasoline.

CENTRE COLLEGE NOT TO PLAY WILMINGTON

Final announcement the Wilmington College football team will not play the Centre College eleven, of Danville, Ky., at Wilmington, Thanksgiving Day, should kill a persistent rumor that such a game had been booked.

Wilmington is without a game for the turkey day and business men and college officials opened negotiations with Centre in the hope of filling the day. The negotiations reached the point where a representative from the team that beat Harvard conferred with Wilmington officials, but an agreement on terms could not be reached.

Coach Harper is anxious for his fast-going Quakers to tangle up with some real opposition in at least one game this season and this ambition, it is now said, may lead to Kenyon furnishing the exhibition on Thanksgiving. Harper has not given up hope and still has strings out for an Ohio conference team for the closing game. Wilmington plays Defiance, Friday.

Gen. Wingate could not tell the living voice from its RE-CREATION by the NEW EDISON

If you are thinking phonograph for Christmas, give serious thought to General Wingate's letter.

It suggests, doesn't it, that Mr. Edison has made his phonograph a new kind of instrument, —something infinitely finer and more desirable than the ordinary phonograph or talking-machine.

The New Edison has created the new standards by which people judge phonographs and talking-machines today.

To discover those new standards, you must

Hear the marvelous NEW EDISON

You will discover a phonograph that actually gives all the beauties of the original music. You will find an instrumentality that actually brings all the power of the original music to soothe, refresh, and encourage mind and body.

These wonderful results are possible, because the New Edison RE-CREATES music so perfectly that RE-CREATED performance can not be told from original performance. The New Edison is the only phonograph which sustains this test,—the test of direct comparison. This fact alone sets the New Edison apart.

Christmas Concerts

We are now giving special Christmas concerts, to help Christmas shoppers make comparisons, and to reveal to them the new home-music which the New Edison brings. You are cordially invited. Come any time.

SURROGATE

June 2nd 1921

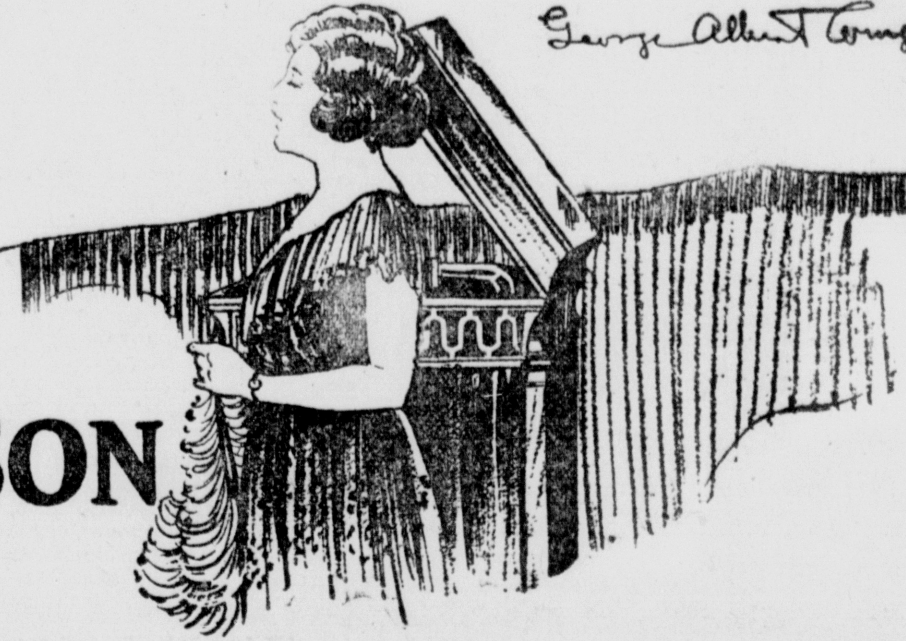

Mr. Thomas A. Edison,
Orange, New Jersey.
Dear Mr. Edison:

I want to tell you how highly impressed I was by the realism which the New Edison showed in the comparison test which was given before the Reville Post of the American Legion.

The quality, tone, and humanness of Miss Clark's recreated voice were the same as the quality, tone and humanness of Miss Clark's living voice. With my eyes shut, I could not tell one from the other. The same is also true when Mr. Young played in comparison with a Re-Creation of his own piano-playing, — and when Mr. Phillips sang in comparison with the Re-Creation of his own voice.

Very truly yours,

George Albert Wingate

The test General Wingate heard

IN the insert is General Wingate, who commanded the 52nd Field Artillery during the war. The audience, of which he was a part, heard Miss Helen Clark sing in comparison with the RE-CREATION of her voice by the New Edison on May 25th, 1921, in the 2nd Field Artillery Armory, Brooklyn.

Gen. Wingate wrote Mr. Edison, "With my eyes shut, I could not tell one from the other."

Photograph On Which Charges Based

This is the photograph of the scaffold in Is-sur-Tille, France, which Senator Thomas Watson, of Georgia, produced in the Senate when he made his charges that American soldiers were hanged in France by their officers without court-martial. The photograph was turned over to Senator Watson by a Washington, D. C., ex-service man. The condemned soldier can be seen mounting the steps to the "drop," while American soldiers stood "at attention." According to the War Department's records, there were two soldiers executed in this town, following a trial and their conviction. Senator Watson's charges are being made the subject of a Senate investigation.

FOUR HUNDRED PAY ADMISSION PRICE TO HEAR McDUFFIE

Over four hundred religious zealots, at twenty-five cents a zealot, crowded into the Rink Sunday night to hear the Rev. S. Douglas McDuffie, found guilty by a jury in Common Pleas Court of a serious charge, preach the gospel to the uninitiated.

The two bits entrance fee was to keep out the "pikers," the Rev. McDuffie explained. The admission charge at the gate gave out the impression that the usual collection of stray bits of change would be foregone, but such was not the case. The little collection with its tinkle of silver and crinkle of bank notes went merrily on inside.

The colored evangelist was released from the confines of the county jail, Saturday afternoon, after a flock of bondsmen and bondswomen had affixed their signatures to the scrap of paper. He was just in time to fill his advertised engagement at the Rink, Sunday night, where he packed them in for twenty-five cents, war tax presumably included in the quarter.

Pitching into his oratory, the Rev. McDuffie flung a challenge at the other colored ministers in the city when he defied any member of the audience to produce another colored preacher in Xenia who could advertise a meeting in a "dance hall" for one night, and then draw the crowd that he had done.

The presence of the crowd, Sunday night, gave evidence of the fact that the adverse advertising McDuffie has been collecting in connection with his case in court, has worked with reverse English. The more complicated become the legal affairs of the evangelist, the more the laity springs to his backing with well-filled pocketbooks.

Mrs. Anna Dickerson, who lives in her own home, on Columbus street, east of the city limits, is an example of the support McDuffie is getting. She signed his bond, Saturday, after first crying over it in the Court House corridor. Sunday night, she paid her way in to hear him and then contributed to the general collection. She is an employee of the American Tobacco Company stemmery.

On charging two-bits a head to get into the Rink, Sunday night, the Rev. McDuffie announced that there were many stragglers who came to hear the bits of wisdom which fell from his lips and possibly to benefit spiritually therefrom, who on the other hand were cold on the contributing clause, and neglected to respond when the hat was passed. The admission fee was to see that these "pikers" were frozen out or else paid their way.

Just when the audience felt that it was getting by on the single admission however, McDuffie brought up his own trials and tribulations and in an earnest appeal to his audience told of his vast expense of paying counsel to represent him in court. He then invited all who wanted to see him get a new trial, to contribute in proportion to their desires for the new trial, which they did, accordingly.

Attorneys for McDuffie have filed a motion for a new trial but as it was too late to be heard, Monday, motion day, the motion will probably not be heard until next Monday. In the meantime, the Rev. McDuffie is free to continue his remunerative preaching.

Strengthening the Digestion

A good digestion depends upon a great many things, among others on the strength of the muscles of the stomach and abdomen. If you take exercises to strengthen these muscles your digestion will improve enormously.

One of the best and one of the easiest to do is as follows: Lie flat on your back either on a bed or couch without any pillow under your head, or lie flat on the floor. Put your hands on your hips, then, without hips steady, is not only good for the digestion but it will also break up chronic cases of constipation and it will reduce a fat abdomen.

Mrs. B.—As you feel well and retain your youth, although your weight is 130 pounds I do not see why you should want to increase it. If there are parts of the body, which need filling out, massage with a nourishing cream. But if you want to increase your weight, you can do so by taking a tablespoonful of olive oil, in the same amount of grape juice, three as far as you possibly can. In order to raise the head all the muscles of the abdomen and stomach must draw themselves up. You can feel the actual pull of these muscles.

After you have held the position a moment relax. Repeat and relax at least 12 times. A variation of this exercise is to clasp the hands over the chest, and another variation is to clasp the hands back of the head—this last is a little more difficult.

I advise this exercise in all cases of chronic indigestion. Taking medicines to aid the digestive process is only advisable to a certain extent. The actual cure is to make the body so strong that it can function without medical aid.

There are many other exercises which you can take with this, or instead of this if you grow tired of doing one thing. Standing with the hands on the hips and revolving the upper part of the body, keeping the any outside support, raise the head times each day.

Trixie—You are five pounds overweight. You will probably look best with the medium shade of rouge and the natural shade in powders.

S. S.—Air the hair more frequently and never keep it done up over night. Protect the bunion from any pressure, by using a felt ring, which comes for this purpose. Bunions may be stopped from growing this way, but to reduce their size, the services of a chiropodist are needed.

Betty Jane—There is some congestion in these veins which makes them show so suddenly. This may improve by applying extremes in temperatures which is done quickly so as to get reactions. For instance, apply a cloth moistened with hot water for a few minutes, then change to an ice rub for the same length of time and repeat for ten or more times. Give this treatment every few days and note the results. Send a stamped addressed envelope for the cream formula.

Today's Talk

Golds, and Browns, and Purples... I have just taken a ride in the out-of-doors through a section of October.

As I rode and wondered and marvelled at such gorgeous colorings, the thought came to me—what definition would I give to October if someone should ask me? And this is what I would have said!

For miles I looked into a thousand variations—until the call of the Night came nearer and shadows drew dense and denser. Streaks of glittering gold, and edges of silver outlining feathery clouds, spread like a screen in the background of the golds and browns and purple of the dying leaves.

I thought of Millet, of Innes, of Blake, of Legros, of Whistler—and I thought that with all their genius for catching such scenes no artist could be great enough long enough to get but a faint feeling from such a passing beauty.

I have seen sunsets upon the plains,

I have seen them play behind towering mountains in the Rockies, I have seen them right after storms, and across fields of snow when billions of diamonds seemed out to dance—but somehow there never can be a sunset like unto an October sunset behind trees that have just started to drop their litter of leaves in golds and purples.

When ripe apples, reddened by some god, lie like gems upon the ground; when chestnuts crack and fall, when woodbine blushes out its heart and softened winds come out to romp with timid frosts, when grapes hang tight with sweetened juice, then—it's October's time!

How rare a month, how full of everymonth that has gone before. What days in which to weigh the thoughts and deeds of a lifetime. Let us ever take October for retrospect, for meditation—and for prayer!

"O, suns and skies and flowers of June.

Count all your boasts together, Love loveth best of all the year October's bright blue weather."

Both Alike When It Comes To Reading

The Boston Varnish Company has achieved wonderful success, through the use of newspaper advertising, and in a recent interview, an official of the company has this to say of the daily newspaper:

"The instinctive desire for news, inborn in each of us, makes the daily newspaper essential to every individual capable of reading. Aged persons with failing eyesight, grasp the newspaper for the few moments of reading permitted them each day. The home of the millionaire, the salaried man and the wage earner—all are entered by the daily paper, and the warmth of its welcome is equally great in each home.

"There is really nothing closer to our hearts than OUR paper, in OUR town. It breathes refreshing bits of OUR streets, OUR friends, and often it devotes a line or two to those most important of personages, OURSELVES."

"Taken by and large, the local newspaper is pre-eminently the court of universal appeal for the local advertiser."

The Evening Gazette and The Morning Republican cover the trading territory of Greene County merchants completely and entirely.

TRANSCONTINENTAL BIKE RIDER STOPS IN XENIA SUNDAY

Norman D. Sykes who is riding a bicycle from New York to Pasadena, California, stopped in Xenia, Sunday, for a day's visit with R. Hayes Hamilton. Mr. Sykes left Saranac Inn, N. Y., in the Adirondacks October 21, and has made an average of over fifty miles a day on his "bike."

He left, early Monday morning, and will go through Indiana from here, visiting Richmond, Indianapolis, Terre Haute, St. Louis and Kansas City and will strike southward going through Kansas, Colorado, Arizona and on into California. He had made over eight hundred and fifty miles when he arrived in Xenia within a period of about two weeks' time.

Mr. Sykes says that he knows that he will appreciate California all the more when he gets there about the first of the year. So far he has had very good luck and only two punctures. The best roads he has had since leaving the mountains have been here in Ohio. Pictures of the different places along the road where he visits are being sent each day by Mr. Sykes to Mr. Hamilton along with notes, and the latter is preparing a "Transcontinental Lecture" to be used in California when Mr. Hamilton goes there in January.

RED CROSS BUDGET CALLS FOR SUM OF NINETEEN MILLION

Washington, Nov. 7.—Appropriations totaling $19,361,657 are contained in the budget of the American Red Cross for the current fiscal year, it was announced at national headquarters. These projected expenditures are more than $9,000,000 lower than disbursements during the fiscal year, when the total reached $24,432,741. For the support of its work the Red Cross will hold its annual roll call throughout the country from Armistice day to Thanksgiving.

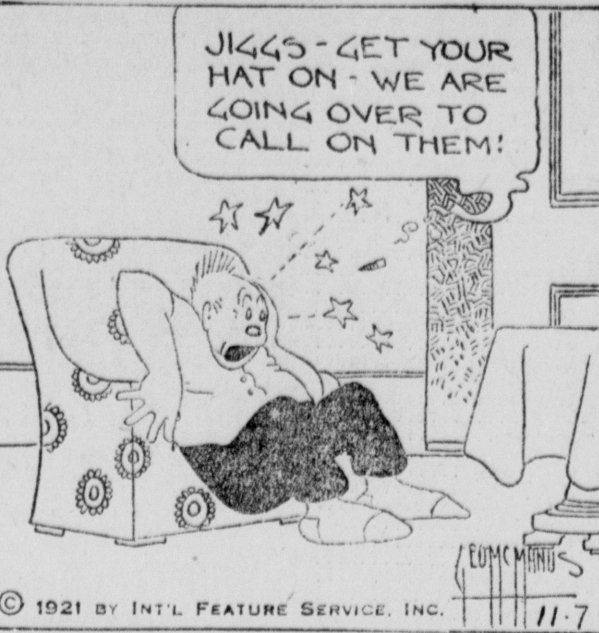

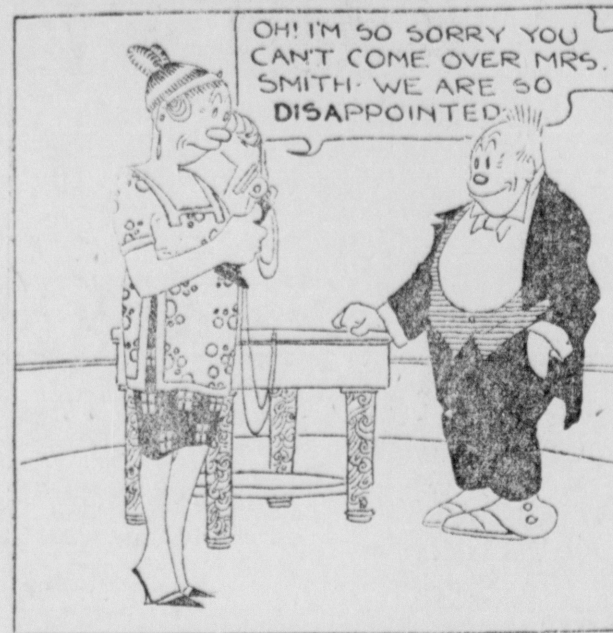

Among the items of domestic budget is the appropriation of $3,669,256 for Red Cross service in behalf of the disabled ex-service man and his family. This represents the amount allotted to this work from national headquarters only and does not take into consideration the millions being spent by Red Cross chapters for the relief of the disabled.

An additional appropriation of $469,600 has been made for Red Cross work in connection with regular army and navy hospitals and with the members of the regular army and navy.

For disaster relief the Red Cross has set aside $543,976, virtually doubling the appropriation for the same purpose last year. More than $2,000,000 is provided for service and assistance to the 3,660 Red Cross chapters by the national organization.

From a fund of $10,000,000, $5,000,000 of which was contributed through the European relief council campaign and $5,000,000 allotted by the Red Cross for child welfare work in Europe, there remains $8,768,108 still available of which it is estimated that $6,000,000 will be required for this work during the current year.

BRINGING UP FATHER

THE CHEERFUL CHERUB

I know a helpless fragile soul. She clings to others all day long. One can't refuse the claims she makes—It's strange that weakness is so strong.

JOB, SUIT AND MONEY GONE

Dover Jefferson, colored who gave his address as Xenia, has been beaten out of $14 cash by one of these here city slickers, by heck! Dover's faith in mankind led him to furnish another colored man, who offered him a job in Dayton, Friday and who said his name was Johnny Smith, with $10 for a "butler suit," and to lend Smith $4.00 because of his kindness.

Jefferson was told to report at a house on South Perry street, where he would get the butler suit and become a butler. When he went there he could locate neither Smith nor the job and now he wants his money back.

ORGANIZE NORTH END COAL FIRM

The Lampert Floral Company, which operates its principal greenhouses on the Springfield pike, is branching out into the coal business. The North End Coal company is the title of that branch of the organization according to George Lambert, who is inaugurating the plan of selling coal.

The company takes orders for delivery and operates three delivery trucks on the coal business exclusively.

PARLIAMENT IS DISSOLVED
Lisbon, Nov. 7.—President Almeida signed a decree Sunday dissolving parliament. Elections have been fixed for Dec. 11.

Efficient Housekeeping

BEFORE PLANNING YOUR "COLOR SCHEME"

Before an artist attempts to paint a picture, he knows that he must learn something about colors. Yet we housekeepers rush pell-mell into the task choosing a "color scheme" for our rooms—when we know almost nothing about the study of colors!

Time and again, I hear women referring to a light tone of a certain color as a "shade" and a dark tone as a "tint." This is wrong. And it is foolish for us to think that we can intelligently combine colors unless we know enough about them to avoid making such mistakes as this.

A "shade" of color is a tone tending from the normal color towards shadow; a "tint" is any one in which the normal color is increasing in lightness. A "hue" is obtained by adding a little of another color to the original color. The word "tone" is applied to any variation in color, including black, white and gray.

Red, yellow and blue are the "primary" colors; and when any two of these three colors are mixed together, the result is called a "complementary" color to the third color, which was not mixed. For instance, yellow and purple are complementary colors (red and blue mixed together make purple); blue and orange are complementary colors—red and yellow mixed together make orange;—and red and green are complementary colors—yellow and blue mixed together make green.

So, if you have a lavender room—perhaps a lavender-and-gray color color scheme) and you feel that there is too much of a "sameness" about it, add just a dash here and there of the complementary color of purple—yellow. This "dash" might be a yellow candlestick, a yellow lamp-shade, a yellow vase, or a yellow cushion.

It is the same with the other complementary colors. If you have a color scheme that is chiefly green—green and buff, perhaps) and you feel that it is a little monotonous, add a touch of scarlet here and there to give it life—a spray of bitter-sweet berries in a green vase, for instance. Or if your color scheme is any shade of blue—blue and white, well say—and you want to give it more life, place an orange-colored bowl on the mantel, holding a lily bulb.

Black, white and gray are called "neutral" colors. Strictly speaking, they are not "colors" at all, but they play a very important part in mixing colors to obtain tones that cannot be produced by mixing the primary colors alone. White and black are the pigments representing light and dark, and gray is a combination of black and white.

So, Reader-friend, when you hear a neighbor say she is trying to "think out" a new color scheme for her living room, ask her if she knows these things about the study of color. For if she does not, she may spend her money on wall paper, rugs and draperies that will produce only a feeling of unrest in the beholder because of their lack of color harmony.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD ON SATURDAY

Funeral services for David L. Yarnell, aged 79, former well known business man of Selma, Ohio, who passed away at the home of his daughter, Mrs. A. E. Cotes, at 1007 South Limestone street, Springfield, were held Saturday at two o'clock, from the Cotes home. Burial was made at Ferncliff Cemetery.

JOAN EXPLAINS WHY SHE CAN- NOT LIVE WITH MARGARET CHAPTER 83

"Have you enjoyed yourself, Joan?" Margaret asked after Ted had gone.

"I saw you liked the play." "Wasn't it just perfect, Mumsie! I love such a play, it leaves one happier somehow. And it was nice in you to bring Ted back with us. Wasn't he funny helping get the supper?"

"Yes, he's—" Margaret stopped abruptly. She knew human nature too well, also Joan's, to praise too highly so she finished, "he's like all the boys, ready to eat."

"I think he improves as you know him," Joan mused as she prepared for bed. "Te has the college boys' egotism of course, they all seem to think they are of a bit better class than boys who don't have their chance to go to college. That's all it is, Mumsie. One has a chance in this world, the other doesn't. We have no way of knowing but that the one who doesn't have a chance would be smarter, or better, more clever than the one who does if they changed places."

"I guess you are right, Joan, but it is late even for us to talk of interesting subjects. Hustle into bed, dear. What do you want for breakfast? Wallfies again?"

"Of course! And fruit and hot gingerbread, and a lot of good things—tell Hannah, please," her voice trailing off as she fell asleep.

"What a child in some things," her mother said looking down at the girl's face framed in its golden curls. "I wonder if she would consent to stay with me if I asked her?"

"Say, Mumsie," Joan said at breakfast, "three of us girls have started a little restaurant down in the village. They call it a 'tea room' but they serve dinner as well. I wish you would bring your crowd down there some night. It would please them and help them too."

"Why, of course, I will!" Then: "I wish you belonged with 'my crowd' as you call them. It would be nice to have you live here with me, Joan." Margaret did not realize how wistful was her voice, or the longing in her eyes. "What nonsense! How can a girl be a free agent and live with relatives! "But I'm your mother! I'm not a relative."

"Don't tell me that two or three times lately. Are you afraid I shall forget I have a mother?" Joan's tone was beligerent, but her eyes smiled. "You see, Mumsie, it would be utterly impossible for me to stand the conventional way you live. You would be sure to be shocked when Dean came in and danced me about the room until I was out of breath, or Rex Taylor grabbed me and told me between kisses what he had been doing, or when some of the girls sat on the floor cross legged like a Turk and smoked and told stories. I can't just picture you in that atmosphere!"

"Is it really necessary for your friends to be quite so demonstrative?" her mother queried.

"That's just it! Your question shows you don't understand me, a little bit! Of course it isn't necessary for people to do anything but eat and sleep. And it is the way in your world for people to act like wooden Indians, never show any emotion, any feeling. Why, Mumsie, I would rather be the biggest nut I know than to live the life of repression you and other people do."

"But I don't! Not now. I do all the things I want to dear. I go to the theatre, I dance, visit the restaurants, I am a giddy creature."

"You do all these things but you do them just as everyone does them—and you should. You'd look lovely dancing on the table, like Toots Warner did the other night, but it was all right for Toots to do it. No one thought of criticising her. Could she have done it here? These are extreme cases perhaps, Mumsie, but you can see after living a Bohemian life I couldn't possibly settle down to the to the cut and dried life I would have to live as Mrs. Margaret Hayden's daughter. Now I am Joan Hayden. Few people even bother with but Joan, or Jo—too much trouble. They know my ideas about freedom; expressing one's own personality, and so on. They know I am happy when they do as they like, and that I claim the same privilege. This is a different generation, Mumsie—might as well recognize it."

"I do! groaned Margaret. Goodness knows I do."
